

Cari Rincker, Esq.

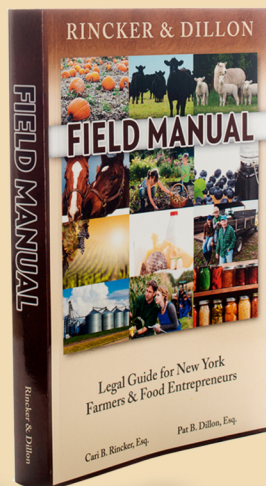

Cari Rincker is licensed to practice law in Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and the District of Columbia. She is also a trained mediator to help food and agricultural businesses work through their disputes.

Cari Rincker is an award-winning lawyer and blogger. She won the Excellence in Agriculture Law award from the American Agriculture Law Association in 2014 and was recognized as a Metro New York Rising Star by Super Lawyers. Cari is a thought leader in the food and agriculture law community. She is the Past-Chair of the American Bar Association's General Practice Solo & Small Firm Committee's Agriculture Law Committee.

Cari's boots are still firmly planted in the agriculture industry. She grew up on a beef cattle farm in Shelbyville, Illinois and is still actively involved in her family's cattle operation. Cari also judged livestock collegiately and enjoys judging cattle shows at the local, state and national levels.
